TRUTEC is an office building located in the heart of Digital Media City (DMC) in Seoul, Korea. It is the first building in Korea to adopt the TWIN system and is equipped with a total of four elevators. The exterior of the building is surrounded by more than 500 three-dimensional glass mirrors, showcasing a unique architectural aesthetic. One of its major tenants is the Korean office of TRUMPF, a German company specializing in laser and industrial processing equipment.
